With contributions from children with acquired brain injury, their family members and teachers

Following an acquired brain injury, children have unique special needs and require these to be addressed on an ongoing basis.

This groundbreaking conference investigates the concept of utilising education as rehabilitation. It will explore the evidence base for this inter-disciplinary model of provision, with the child and family being central to its success.

It is designed for:

- Barristers
- Brain injury case managers
- Connexions advisers
- Education officers
- Educational / clinical psychologists
- Insurers
- Lecturers
- Occupational therapists
- Parent partnership officers
- Parents
- Physiotherapists
- Social workers
- Solicitors
- Speech and language therapists
- Teachers
- Teaching assistants
- Anyone with an interest or involvement with young people with acquired brain injury
